TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I am a Director of Probsoft Plc a software development company based in the UK.

I have known Graham Daniels for more than 15 years. We have transacted business together and maintained a solid working relationship. I have always found Graham to be both generous and fair in his business dealings.

I have found Graham to be a person of integrity and honour. He is a faithful and committed Christian, this reflects in both his everyday life and his business dealings.

Graham has an interesting ability to assess a business situation, apply his firm beliefs and principles and determine a profitable and strategic path forward to develop the current situation into a beneficial outcome for the parties involved. This is practical Christianity working out in 'real life' circumstances. This, together with his discipline to his faith and the fact that he holds his family in the highest regard I have admiration for Graham and hold him in the highest respect.

Yours sincerely,
